Search-Driven Analytics

Inject Power into Standard Reporting

Quality and operations managers spend a third of their time generating one-off reports for executives and business units. That's time that you could be spending driving improvement within your quality, safety, and supplier programs. When you add the power of Search-Driven Analytics (SDA) to the RizePoint platform, you'll start saving time, gaining better transparency, and doing more.

SDA indexes all your company data, understands how it's related, and generates reports without the need to write code or wait for a data analyst to build them for you. You'll get the business intelligence you need, when you need it, so you can quickly spot trends and drive improvement.

"Using RizePoint's platform has allowed us to gain visibility and organization so that we are not working in silos anymore. We are actually working as a company and as a team."

Joe Ventimiglia | Operations Services Manager

Features

Powerful Search

Easily access and analyze information from all your data sources to create ad-hoc reports without relying on your I.T. department. You'll quickly pivot your attention to issues that need it most.

Business Insights

Access machine learning and artificial intelligence (AI) powered by SpotIQ[1] to help you "spot trends with a single click." It's a RizePoint partnership that saves you from a $1 million entry barrier.

Customizable Pinboards

View your data in several ways so you can gain insights that are unique to your business challenges. RizePoint even shows recommendations on how to tell a compelling visual story.

Benefits

Easy QBR Prep

Make your quarterly business reports a breeze with AI-recommended insights and ideas. Reports are easy to build and distribute via email and with role-based permissions in RizePoint.

Powerful Reporting

Take your existing reports to the next level to gain insightful business intelligence. You'll easily create ad-hoc reports without relying on I.T., and you can build pinboards that enable at-a-glance visibility.

External Data Integration

Mesh quality data with all your data sources to gain deeper insights. RizePoint admins will work with you to create the fully capable, custom API integrations you need.

Already a RizePoint customer? Implementation is fast. Call us today to add the power of SDA to your business tomorrow.
